

into the collective-evolution consciousness which stores ALL of the consequences, incarnations, and evolution recorded in the 200,000+/- years of human consciousness.

Three-dimensionally it is the last stronghold of the human ego clinging to the old model. Fourth-dimensionally it reflects the complex components of the divine plan. The magnitude of that plan is incomprehensible to the human ego. The plan sometimes is difficult to value, and at times it is difficult to trust. The plan even seems at times undeserved and unfair, as homes, lives and livelihoods are lost; forests and creatures, habitats and hope... all lost. When stock markets crash or the exposure of corrupt corporations makes the value of their shares plummet – on the 3rd dimension, the wipeouts can be devastating.

The Creator's divine plan and the karmic model provide, however, for the energies of those losses to return. The suffering will be healed and reconfigured as proportional rewards in a later lifetime, if not, even, the current life. The contribution to consciousness evolution associated with such events is significant even while disheartening and faith-testing. The individuals will often look back and see when their soul guidance said to sell, or not to purchase in the first place.

In transactions of advanced karma elimination, not only will the individual be shown the excuses and denials that jeopardized the highest outcome. An additional action to balance the situation will also be presented. However, one of the indicators that the karmic model has reached its limitations is that, even in the advanced stages of dissolving karma, the ego's supreme resistance can make up reasons why "just this once" or "just a little bit" will avoid consequences in the act of avoiding truth. The highly-evolved yet well-practiced-at-such-evasions ego thereby prolongs evolution and postpones enlightenment. Karma and consequences thus go another round.

From the higher planes, the reason for loss and distress may be to balance an unfair exchange from the past. The ego is unlikely to access the truth by asking "why?" the distress, however, because truth always must be revealed. If the Creator does show the ego the time and place and details of a previous unfair transaction, it is because the ego is ready to evolve by truth revealed instead of lessons and consequences.
